CEO’s Monthly Message: November 2026

The skepticism surrounding AI today is understandable; every radical leap in human history has stirred profound unease.

Yet AI is not merely another product, tool, or software – it is non-human intelligence. Because of this fundamental distinction, its arrival and sharp ascent is inevitable.

To resist is to deny the reality of our existence. Rather than treating AI as an adversary to manage, we must learn to welcome it as a life companion. Its acceptance does not diminish us; rather, it helps us to be more human.

As machines learn to reason more and more, our greater calling is to deepen our humanness through purpose and empathy.
